

Key points to be treated (not necessarily in this order)

- Problem & Solution: answers the «Why?», should be treated 1st in presentation
- Product / technology/ IP / patents: answers the «How?».
- Target customers / size of addressable market / Competition / go to market strategy: show the business potential.
- Team: Show you have the skills needed.
- Achievements: you have done your homework and are proactive.
- Development Plan / product roadmap / finance: show that you have a plan.
- See TedX: Simon Sinek – «How Great leaders inspire action»

Key points to be treated (not necessarily in this order)

a) Core story: get attention. You're solving a big problem!

b) Side message: educate, gain credibility

- Core story
- Highlights
(credibility points)
- Hesitations
(expected resistance points)
- Questions
(and QbQs ...)
- Notes
(everything else)

The things that will help your audience

- Stay simple, not stupid
- Help people visualize your offer, value proposition
- Emphasize the customer experience («who buy what and why?»)...
Customers is at the center
- Be sharp: no generic statement or world problem description
- Be specific, quantify, illustrate
- Be authentique: «Entrepreneur wanted». Show that you are passionate... not just trying to get rich
- Help us dream, engage people with emotions. It's not only about numbers and technology

Build your story board

To do

45 mins to 1 hour preparation for a 5 min presentation on

- Your pitch with particular focus on:
 - The opportunity and solution
 - Your innovation
 - Your market (customer): who buys (will buy) what and why
 - Use visualizations: not necessary images, can be just comparison
- Emphasize key elements of your story board :
 - Keep it short on obvious aspects
 - Use more time on important and not obvious aspects
 - Articulate the story around your key strengths and highlights

(for slides you don't have, just produce the outline)

- About 5 minutes presentation
- We want a business presentation! Not a science pitch!